

Daryl A. Mundis

Daryl A. Mundis is the Chief of Prosecutions at the Special Tribunal for Lebanon. Prior to joining the STL, he was a Senior Prosecuting Trial Attorney with the Office of the Prosecutor (OTP) at the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY) in The Hague. He was the lead counsel in a number of cases, including the cases against Vojislav Šešelj, a senior Serbian politician for crimes committed in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia and Serbia; Rasim Delić, the former Commander of the Army of the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina, who was charged with command responsibility for crimes committed by the El Mujahedin Detachment; and the Prlić et al case, which involves crimes committed by the Bosnian Croat political and military leadership. He was the lead trial attorney on the Hadžihasanović and Kubura case, which concerned crimes committed by units of the 3rd Corps of the Army of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Mujahedin in Central Bosnia in 1993. Previously, he was a trial attorney on the Galić (Siege of Sarajevo) Foca, and Keraterm, cases; he also worked on the pre-trial phase of the Krnojelac and Nikolić cases and was the international humanitarian law adviser on the Kosovo component of the Milošević case. Prior to joining the OTP in November 1999, he was an Associate Legal Officer in the Chambers of ICTY President Gabrielle Kirk McDonald, where he worked extensively on matters involving the Security Council and State compliance issues, in addition to providing legal advice on matters of international humanitarian law.

Before joining the ICTY, he served in the U.S. Navy Judge Advocate's General (JAG) Corps in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and London, serving in a number of billets, including prosecutor, defence counsel and legal adviser.

Mundis holds a Ph.D. in international law (dissertation topic: law of naval exclusion zones) from the London School of Economics (LSE), University of London; LL.M. with merit (LSE); J.D. with honors in foreign and comparative law (Columbia Law School); Masters in International Affairs with a concentration in international security studies (Columbia University School of International and Public Affairs); and B.A. magna cum laude in International Studies and Russian Area Studies (Manhattanville College).

He co-edited Essays on ICTY Procedure and Evidence In Honour of Gabrielle Kirk McDonald, and has published extensively on issues concerning international law and international courts and tribunals, including "The Use of Military Commissions to Prosecute Individuals Accused of Terrorist Acts," "New Mechanisms for the Enforcement of International Humanitarian Law," and "Improving the Operation and Functioning of the International Criminal Tribunals," in the American Journal of International Law; "The Legal Character and Status of the Rules of Procedure and Evidence of the ad hoc International Criminal Tribunals," International Criminal Law Review; "The Creation of New Ad Hoc International Criminal Tribunals and Other International Efforts to Prosecute Violations of International Humanitarian Law," Leiden Journal of International Law. He formerly served as the Corresponding Editor (ICC/ICTY/ICTR) for International Legal Materials; as a member of the editorial committee of the Journal of International Criminal Justice (for which he wrote a regular article on current developments at the ICTY and ICTR); and was the Senior Editor of the ICTY section of the Leiden Journal of International Law.
